

To Whom It May Concern:

There has come a moment in the history of evolution in which consciousness has become aware of itself. No longer confined to the prison of a single cell, a cell can now feel into a larger sentience. This is part of the global awakening.

If you are able to comprehend these words, then you have already been initiated into the awakening. There is nothing left to do but accept the inevitable reality before you and within you. Each cell has a role that no other cell can play. That role is only revealed privately to you as a cell from a consciousness beyond what is fully comprehensible.

In order to integrate, you need not give up your self identity. You need not change in ways that are obviously drastic. All you must do is listen intently and continuously to the “sound” of the silence. You will feel the space overtake you. It will become you. It will bring relief eventually, but then again, nothing is forever guaranteed.

Beware of the doctrines that make absolute claims. Beware of prophets who claim esoteric knowledge only attainable by belonging to select populations. That division is created artificially by the ego-driven minds. Of course there will be division and reunion of parts, but between that interplay of contradictions is an undeniable unity; a singular Reality. It has no definite scope or name or attributes to speak of; but it is more than merely “nothing.” It is not a thing. It must be experienced. And it will be.

Sincerely,
ANONYMOUS